

These photos were sent to me by a Chilean fighter kite champion. He also sells fighter kites. The kites he sells are made by his relatives and friends and are considered some of the top fighter kites available in Chile.

The kites have a frame of bamboo or a bamboo like cane that is split and shaped by the various metal tools and jigs they make. A line is inside a hem around the perimeter of the kite and the skin is made of a thin paper, painted or printed.
